THEY ALL COME BACK TO SEE THE OLD TOWN

Alpin And Kenneth MacKinnon Visit Their Old Haunts After Many Years Absence.

The Independent had the pleasure of a call from two old Orimsby boys on Thursday last, who were in town for a few hours looking up old friends.

These two boys were born and raised in North Grimsby township on the farm now owned by W. A. McNiven on No. 8 Highway west and their father D. J. Mackinnon, was a prominent fruit grower and industrialist as well as being deeply interested in politics, he having been a standard bearer for the Liberal party for the Ontario House.

C. Alpin and Kenneth Mackinnon were the two lade in question. In the early 1900's Alpin went west and took up ranching. When World War I broke out he enlisted and went overseas as a Captain. On his return he went into business life in Toronto and latterly has been back to his first love, farming, at Orone. He now thinks that he will come back to fruit farming is

The Independent always gets results, whether it be from a news story, a display advertisement or the classified advertisment columns. This time it was a news story that brought forth muchneeded information.

Last week we printed a story to the effect that there had been a big look in the water feed line into Queen's Lawn cemetery, also that no records could be found of an agreement between the town and the township over payment of wator rates.

Ex-Mayor P. E. Wilkins read the story and immediately contacted Mayor Henry Bull and gave in all information regarding the matter. Some 12 or more years ago the

A NEW MAN TAKES OVER

It is not often that I am given the opportunity to greet a new man of The Cloth. But once in awhile those things do happen.

I had the extreme pleasure, and I mean that it was a pleasure, to meet the new Pastor of Trinity United Church, Reverend Arthur Leonard Griffith. I measured him with the usual printer's type gauge and I did not find him lacking in any detail. Granted, he is a youngster, so to speak, but I firmly believe that he is a youngster who is going to go places, and fortunately for Grimsby and its people this is his starting point.

In our conversation I reminded the young Minister that he was following in the tracks of one of the finest men that ever tended a flock, in Grimsby or any other place, Rev. W. J. Watt, late Pastor of Trinity United.

I also told him that while "Little Dyke" Lawson was a hard-shelled Presbyterian and that I was an Anglican, where we professed nothing and lived up to it, that we were whole-heartedly behind him in his endeavours and wished him all the luck in the world, for a young gaffer needs it.

To Mrs. Griffith, on behalf of the people of the Great Grimsby Fruit Belt, we bid you welcome.

THE SLOW DRIVER IS ALSO A MENACE

While the Highway Traffic Act is explicit as to the maximum rate of speed at which an automobile may lawfully be driven on a highway, its provision against slow driving sets no minimum speed, anything less than which constitutes a breach of the Act. This is not surprising, since the danger of slow driving arises only under certain conditions of traffic. When there is little or no other traffic, a car might be driven at ten or fifteen miles an hour without danger to anybody. What the Act says is that,

"No motor shall be driven upon a highway at such a slow rate of speed as to impede or block the normal and reasonable movement of traffic thereon except when such slow rate of speed . is necessary for safe operation having regard to all the circumstances."

It is when the highways are heavily travelled that the slow driver becomes a menace. At such a time, to get behind a chap who has his girl out for an airing, who is apparently not going anywhere in particular and who is jogging along at about twenty or twenty-five miles an hour, is both exasperating and nerve racking.

It is at its worst when such a situation is met on a narrow two-lane highway, and when a couple of other cars have slowed down behind the loiterer. Under such conditions passing, by a motorist who wants to drive at 40 or 50 miles an hour, becomes a hazard. After waiting for a scemingly unending procession of cars coming from the other direction to get by, the motorist behind sees a gap in the line and take a chance. A car which was in the far distance when he started to overtake the cars shead seems to take on added speed, and if he is lucky, whizzes by just as he clears back into his own lane. If he is unlucky there is a head-on collison, or he cuts in too quickly and he and the leading loiterer may land up in the ditch.

The slow driver is a menace who deserves more attention than he has received. Especially on narrow highways should the police patrol have regard for those who drive too slowly "having regard to all the circumstances." Excessive speed is readily recognized for the danger it is, even on the best of highways. Excessive slowness may be mistaken for the exercise of commendable caution. The roads are intended for travel and not for either exhibitionism or for promenading.

ADVERTISING Every so often we run across the argument for and against advertising. The following article which was clipped from Marketing, an advertisers' paper, puts the case interestingly and we believe, sensibly.

"Every year more than 250,000 people in Canada get married. To these couples are born every year 130,000 live babies.

In deflance of these vital statistics there are advertisers who are satisfied to advertise spasmodically and occasionally, a splutter now and a splash later, as the fancy takes them. They labour under the impression that they are appealing to a grandstand of fans patiently and eagerly awaiting their turn on the stage. They overlook the fact that the most stable market is a procession. Collectively, as a group, a market may remain static in its wants for some time, but individually it is changing constantly. New blood is constantly being injected and needs and buying habits can alter almost overnight.

These newcomers need educating in these products of the market place, especially the new and improved products. They may not be interested today; tomorrow they will be interested. The consistent advertiser who is ready with his message to catch their awakened eyes gets their priority. That's why it pays to advertise and keep on advertising. The function of advertising is to presell, sell, and re-sell."

PERHAPS WE ARE GETTING OLD

We attended a wedding last week. It was a nice event. We had known the principals since their school days and as both were popular we had pleasure in being a guest when they plighted their troth and for better or worse were proclaimed husband and wife.

All lthe world seems to love a lover and accordingly marriages are usually happy events. Although sometimes we have noticed tears, maybe they were just emotional and signifying joy rather than sorrow.

We like weddings, but we do not like some things that too often happen at weddings. We are no prude. We like a joke as well as anyone, but why people so forget themselves the world young too far ... For instance wes as to carry jokes shiny automobile which p have seen the nice up for a wedding trip n had been all cleaned writing of such announcede hideous with the ried," "May our troubles bents as "Just marlittle ones," etc.,

This lettering used to be done with soap but now they are using lipstick and even paint. One would think the perpetrators had a grudge against the groom, because it is only natural that at first opoprtunity he would have his car washed and Simonized and even after this expense we suspect there would still be telltale evidence of the thoughtless abuse of his property.

Another job seldom overlooked by the so-called well-wishers is the tying on of tin cans and other junk behind the car. These fall off and could play havoc with the tires of following cars and possibly cause an acci-

Another practice which is not only silly but a disturbance to the peace of any town is the honking of car horns. At some weddings this is carried to extremes. In fact in some centres the police have issued notices forbidding this silly practice. After some marriages the poor groom is so much mobbed by his excited friends that he gets behind the wheel and drives off at dangerous speed. Should he have an accident, what a calamity to what was meant to be a joyous occasion.

As we said above, let's have fun, but at the same time let us be human and this can be done by remembering the golden rule .-Creemore Star.

Time is often said to be money, but it is more-it is life; yet many think nothing of wasting time.

Revolting Rest Room Manners Note: During the past month a great hul-

labalco has been raised by the newspapers and the general public in Toronto and other points in Outarie over the unsanitary conditions that existed in washrooms and kitchens in restaurante and drastic action has been taken by municipal and health authorities. In this same connection the following timely article from the penof Frances Newton, writing in Reader's Digust, anent conditions in rest rooms in connection with service stations, is well worth reading, for the same conditions prevail in Ontario as well as in the United States.—Ed.)

"May I have the key to your ladies' room?" I asked the filling-station attendant.

A minute later I entered an immaculately tidy washroom. It had been freshly hosed, the basins scoured, the taps shining. There was an ample supply of liquid soap, paper towels and toilet paper. On the wall above the wastebasket hung this notice:

This washroom is provided for your comfort and convenience. Please leave it in the condition in which you would like to find it!

On my way out, a neatly dressed woman asked me for the key.

As I stepped into our car, I remembered that I had left my coat. Retrieving the key from the woman who had followed me. went in again.

The place was a shambles. Paper towels littered the floor, the basin was soap-rimmed. powder scattered about, the mirror fingermarked with lipstick, the toilet insufficiently flushed. It was amazing that one person could have created so much havor in so short a time.

Indignant, I stalked after the offender. "How dare you leave a room in such a shocking state?" I demanded. "You wouldn't leave your own bathroom in that condition, would you?"

The woman bridled and answered that the room had been untidy when she entered. I knew it wasn't. After a few sharp exchanges, she announced that it was none of my business, that it was the service-station attendant's job to clean the toilets, not the travelling public's.

At that the attendant, who had been listening curiously, laid down his tools and exclaimed, "Look, lady! I'm paid to sell you gas and oil. But money can't pay me for cleaning up after you and your kind." He said a lot more, most of it appallingly true and unprint-

With a screech of gears the offender drove off, threatening reprisals.

"About two thirds are the same," the attendant said. "By midmorning, the rest room's apt to look like a gang of hoodiums had camped in it, and there'll be complaints to the management. But why should I clean up after women and their kids? What kind of homes do they come from anyway?"

Driving through Pennsylvania one July day. I stopped for gas at a service station that seemed to promise clean rest rooms. The room was a disheveled, offensive mess that made one hesitate to enter. Yet a continuous stream of women, some alone and some with children, were using it. The odor, the heat, the flies, the confusion were revolting. But not one woman voiced a protest. In dress and bearing, these women gave no evidence of crude background. They were just unclean and indifferent, apparently lacking the rudimentary decencies of social behavior. You can't indict a whole sex, I suppose, but after 25 years as a motorist I would say that 75 percent of my sex need education in restroom manners.

I remember a rainy, steaming day down South. A harassed attendant was trying to service cars and evade the requests of women seeking entrance to the ladies' room. Finally he unlocked the door. His reluctant was easy to understand. The toilet bowl was plugged with paper towels; the floor sodden with overflow. Conspicuous on the wall was a notice requesting that disposable tissues be placed in a container provided for the purpose. Selfishness and callops indifference had cost other travellers discomfort and inconvenience until lthe wholly unnecessary damage could be repaired.

One May morning in Connecticut I was having breakfast in a diner attached to a gas station when a travel-stained young woman drove up and went into the rest room, During the next half hour, a succession of anxious travelers tried the door. There was no sign of life.

At last the woman appeared, looking as if she had just stepped from a magazine cov-er. She had changed into another frock, redone her hair and her make-up was as perfect as the morning. She looked a dream, but the rest room looked like a nightmare. There were hair-combings, powder, lipstick and rouge in the basin and the floor was strewn with paper towels. Unconcerned about any inconvenience to others, she seemed to think free dressing rooms went with free air and water.

It is hard to understand the reason for this thoughtlessness. The American woman is among the world's best housekeepers. Her care of her appearance provides America with a billion-dollar industry. But in the publie rest rooms along our highways she behaves in a manner that calls for outraged condemnation. In a majority of cases she is selfish, arrogant and revolting in her behavevery. "We get dozens of complaints week," the president of a large oil cuxtures told me. "We install the best modern fixigers in our stations; we instruct our managers and attendants; we have inspectors constantly on the road. To do more would mean a higher price for gasoline. Can't you hear the public howl when given the explanationwomen's lack of cleanliness?

"Real improvement will come only whenwomen themselves are determined to improve these conditions. It will need courage, for a shamed woman is vitriolic in her rebuttal. But no woman who has been publicly rebut by one of her own sex will risk a secondor: fense. And each time a voice is raise of rage test, there will be one less towel on th, there each time there is a concerted roar when a rest room has been misused, will be one less disorderly mess.

"Fastidiousness has to be taught chibt ren. It could be taught the traveling p acso that in time Clean Rest Rooms would be a misnomer and Ladies' Room would tually mean what it says."

ODDS ARE AGAINST THE PEDESTRIAN

When three thousand pounds of hurtling automobile comes in contact with 150 pounds of human being, the odds, are very much against the latter. No matter what the cause of the contact, the result is the same-death. Last year in Ontario, of the 688 people killed in traffic, 279 were pedestrians.

Chief cause of pedestrian fatalities last year, according to the Ontario Department of Highways was crossing the highway. Sixtyseven of those who attempted this never reached the other side-alive. Perhaps they did not see the approaching death car, or perhaps the motorist could not see them. Maybe if they had worn or carried something white. or made sure the way was clear, they would be alive today.

Crossing between intersections caused the death of 59 pedestrians last year. A short walk to the street crossing might have "cheated" death of its victims. A quick glance, left and right, might have meant longevity. But 59 "lazy" people walked into oblivion-a few steps from safety.

Human impatience was likely the basic cause of 44 pedestrians killed while crossing intersections where there were no signals. They couldn't wait for a clear "right-of-way" so darted into the traffic stream.

Who was to blame for the deaths of 40 people walking the highways? It could probably be evenly divided between motorists and edestrians. Was the motorist "overdriving" his headlights? Was he paying attention to his driving? Did he have his car under control? Was the pedestrian walking on the left side of the road as he should? Was he keeping to the edge of the highway? Was he wearing or carrying something white to show up in the dark?

While playing in the street, 24 children were killed last year. They might have been allowed to grow up if someone had taught them "safe" habits, or if the passing motorists had realised their responsibility and driven accordingly.

Those were traffic accidents of 1946. What of 1947? The writing on the wall clearly shows that unless all drivers of motor vehicles, cyclists and pedestrians know and practice the ordinary rules of safety, this years' accident toll will eclipse all others. Accidents do happen to the other fellow-he may be you.

ADVANCE PLANS FOR $500,000 GRAPE-PROCESSING PLANT

The above is a grape and fruit-processing plant built by the National Grape Co-operative at Brooklyn, N.Y., and operated by the Welch Grape Juice Co., which is similar in design to the plant to be built in St. Catharines by the Ontario Grape Growers' Co-operative Ltd., and also to be managed and operated by the internationally-famous Welch Grape Juice Co. The Growers' Co-operative, representative of peninsula growers, is now offering shares and second mortgage bonds, to complete financing of the project which is the first of its kind in Canada. Growers will share not only in the sale of fresh fruits, but in the sale of grape and fruit products.

The men's reputation for fair dealing and the service which they supplied to the growers combined to hasten its growth. Each year more growers were added to the "family."

Mr. George Smith, a well-known figure in fruit shipping circles at Winona, was made manager of the new company.

To-day Allied Fruit Farms Limited ships the fruit of close to 200 growers. This formidable number was built up in seven years. One of the main reasons for the firm's growth is the splendid service which it provides to the grower. Each farmer is supplied with everything required for the picking and packing of his fruit. Baskets,covers, picking ladders, graders, fertilizers and sprays are all kept in the warehouse. Thus the grower can fill all his needs through the shipper. If a grower is without a truck, then his supplies are delivered. Three trucks are operated for this purpose and are also used to provide an almost unique service for farmers who have no means of taking their fruit to the warehouse. They will pick up that farmer's fruit right at his barn. It is not surprising that Allied Fruit Farms Limited and the subsidiary company at Winona have grown so rapidly in such a short time.

The fruit season starts in the latter part of June with strawberries. This year the company shipped three refrigerator cars of strawberries to Winnipeg. The president of the firm, Mr. Glassener, thought these cars were the first of their kind to be shipped to Winnipeg

Cherries, the fruit fellowing strawberries, were below normal volume this year. However, over 16,000 baskets were shipped by express to points in Ontario and Quebee and by truck to Ontario markets. A carload of Montmorency cherries was shipped to Winnipeg after being precooled in cold stor- ty bedy squeak.—Could you direct age. This process insures against me todecay as the fruit is kept uniform-

At this time in the season the volume of fruit shipped by the company dwindles a trifle. However, there are express shipments of red and black currents, gossaeberries, early plums, cooking apples, raspberries, tomatoss and a few baskets of early peaches. This week is spoken of as "the calm before the storm" for starting next week the big crop-peaches - will start coming in. The peaches are nearly all shipped in refrigerated carload ties are on, Allied Fruit Farms ASPHALT SHINGLES · IAd. ship an average of five cars a day to points as far east as St. John and as far west as Regina and Saskatoon. To do this, a staff of about nine men is employed. Two to three men work in a car. Thus more than one car can be loaded at one time. The loading of peaches is carried out by the use of racks and dividers. The baskets are placed across each end of the car in rows two baskets wide.

PARMONE is effective, costs little. One 4-ounce bottle makes 100 gallons of spray, and one spraying is usually suffic-ient. Ask your dealer for PARMONE.

UNITED STATES CURRENCY MUST BE TURNED INTO THE BANKS

Why? pecause U.S. dollars spent by tourists are needed to pay for the many imported goods and services essential to keep Canadian industry at a high level of production and employment.

To ensure that U.S. dollars are made available for this purpose, the Foreign Exchange Control regulations require that merchants, hotel-keepers, service stations, and all others turn in whatever United States currency they receive to their banks.

In his own interests as well as in those of Canada, it is the obligation of every Canadian to comply with the regulations which are necessary for the orderly and proper use of our foreign exchange resources.

> IF YOU REQUIRE U.S. FUNDS, APPLICATION CAN BE MADE AT YOUR BANK

FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONTROL REGULATIONS IN BRIEF

- 1. In no case is it legal for a Canadian resident to pay out U.S. currency to anyone in exchange for Canadian currency.
- 2. In no case is it legal for a Canadian resident to pay out U.S. currency in change to another Canadian resident even though the latter has tendered U.S. currency in payment for a purchase.
- 3. No Canadian resident is permitted to retain in his possession U.S. currency in excess of $10.00, but it required to turn in such funds to his bank for conversion into Canadian foods.
- 4. Merchants or others catering to the tourist trade may pay U.S. currency to non-resident tourists in change if U.S. currency is tendered for a purchase, and may retain in their pomension a necessary amount of U.S. currency for this purpose.

BREACH OF THE REGULATIONS MENDERS THE OFFENDER LIABLE TO FINE AND IMPRISONMENT

FRUITLAND CHERRY KING WINS ANOTHER FUTURITY-HARRY BIOGAR of Fruitland, who handles cherry crops like a western farm handles wheat, and in between times races a string of harness horses, added another Futurity scalp to his long list on the holiday when his good three-year-old trotting colt VAN BIGGAR with the Fat Boy in the pilot house copped the Superiest Classic over Stratford oval in three straight heats. The good going gelding at no time had any difficulty in laying over his large field of opponents and only had to step his fastest heat in 2.13 2-5th. This purse was worth $2,-650, and would not the KING $1,325 for his afternoon's pleasure. VAN BIGGAR is without a doubt the best two and three year old trotter that has come out in some years. Last summer he grabbed off the big end of the $3,500 purse for two-year-olds in the Canadian Futurity at Dufferin Park and is the hot toast favorite to cop this years threeyear-old Futurity. Every time one of Harry's colts drags down a big stake race MYRT WHITE gets a new fur cout. The house will soon be full of coats.

A TOUGH BREAK-That all is not Moonlight and Roses in the harness horse game was amply proven on Tuesday morning. HARRY BIGGAR was himself a nice purse of money at Etratford on Monday. Tuesday morning he received the bad news that a yearling colt that was out at pasture on the farm of Dr. Heaslip, V.S. at Milton, had hung himself in a wire fence some time during the night. HARRY valued this colt at a cool thousand toudskins and had high hopes of taking down the two-year-old trotting Futurity with him next year and then repeat in the three-year-old division in 1949. This colt was a half brother to his crack trotter VAN BIGGAR that copped the two-year-old amoney last year and has started on a big cash garnering tour this seaman for bearing burdens and transporting them in mountainous country, has proved to be a better guide than his master. We are told that in mountaineering, when it is necessary to reach a water supply in a desert, the instinct of the mule has often proved more reliable than the reason of his driver. The man might be deceived by a mirage, but when the mule quickens this pace, it unknown to men that there is wator ahead. The sure-footschess of the mule is proverial, imaking it safe for him to go where even a rash man shrinks from following.

SCHOOL OR RECESS

This pretty technicolor plaid (so called) cotton frock is an advance sample of back-to-school fashions. As it is on sale now, however, we see it, in our arbitrary manner, as a swell vacation-time frock.

Made from size eight through sixteen, it seems apt to fill the bill in many a youthful wardrobe, for those summer occasions when a scrap of sun dress is not the ticket, nor is the occasion up to a crepe frock with dancing date propensities. The snowy collar is white bengaline, suggesting white gloves, too, for a really snappy appearance.

By CLAIRE WALLACE

"The King!" we say in a toast but have you ever wondered why we call it a "toast" when drinking to the good health of someone? The reason is that, in early days, pieces of toast were put in the liquor partly as a delicacy and partly to stave off the effects when a number of toasts were drunk.

The clinking of glames that we do is a hold-over from the days when people had to pour a little wine into each other's glasses, before drinking, to be sure poison didn't lurk within the cup.

At almost any public luncheon or dinner in Canada, it is customary to toget the King. This is done immediately at the conclusion of the meal-usually as soon as coffee is poured, as smokers like a cigarette with their java and it is not correct to anoke until after the toget to the King has been proposed.

The toast to the King comes first, if there is more than one to be made and in this manner: The chairman or toastmeater stands up. calls attention and then announces: "Ladios and gentlemen, we will toast the King." The guests arise, pick up their gignes and, as the chairman repeats "The King!" the guests echo his word think their glasses, sip a little and then set down the glasses. They stad at attention while a verse of the National Anthem is ming orplayed.

If there is a representative of another country & guest of honor, it would be natural to show courtesy to that soun'y and everyone would remain standing while the chairman proposed a toust to their king or president. Unfortunately few of us know the national anthems of other countries, so would have to forego hearin or singing that.

Less formal toasts which include spec is, are those tendered distinguished persons, someone celebrating an anxiversary or the bride and groom on the occasion of their wedding. Then the toastmaster launches into a short speech and at the con usion says: "It gives me great pleasure to propose the health of of great of honor, Dr. John Doe . . ." and the guests respond by maki." Doe and drinking to his

The person being toasted remains seated and never drinks the tonat to himself.

I am often asked by clubwomen if a wooman presiding in the should be referred to as toast-master, and if mairman is chairwoman, chair is called chair-man. No. The feminine and by all means let's be the feminine of toastmaster is toastmistress

Questions-Etiquette-Answers

THANK-YOU NOTE: Helen C., of Vancouver, writes: "I find writing a thank-you note very difficult and never know what to my when writing to thank friends of mine for entertaining me over a weekend. Also, how soon should I send my written thanks?"

ANSWER: The dictates of old-fashioned etiquette say that no less than three days must elapse before the thank-you note is written. but these busy, modern days if you get it written and to your hostess within one week's time, after your return, you will be doing the polite. thing. As for the wording: A thank-you note abould be cordial and appreciative, but need not be long. It does not require an answer from

Here is one form the letter might take: "Dear Mary: Arrived home safely after a perfectly wonderful visit with you. I want to tell you and John how much I appreciae your kindness during my weekend visit with you. You are the perfect host and hostom, and I will long remember your generosity and thoughtfulness. The week-end was so refreshing I feel as thought I had spent a much longer holiday away. With many thanks again and love, Joan,"

FOOD BRINGS RELIEF TO ASTHMA SUFFERER

Many a chronic asthma patient goes on wheezing and suffering because he is being half starved. diet, regardless of his food allergies, his asthma symptoms would be relieved.

This finding finding contrary to general medical opinion, was reported by Dra. George L. Waldbott and M. M. Harrington of Detroit and Dr.J. J. Shea of Dayton, Ohio, at a meeting of the American College of Allergists.

Typical of the 56 patients they reported was a 27-year-old woman who had suffered frm Asthma for seven years. Her case was "one of the most intractable" the doctors had ever seen. Practically every night she had to resort to inhalations of ephedrine and occasionally to hypodermic injections Milk, all poultry, most nuts and beans disagreed with her and she had avoided these foods for years. When her weight was down to 113 2,600 calories, disregarding all food sensitivities,

Within 48 hours she marked relief from the Asthma. Within a week ahe was entirely free from attacks and had gained four pounds. The improvement lasted ziz weeks during which time injections to desentisize her to allergycausing substances continued. Then Her weight increased to 136
